

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides wind activated hunting decoys. More particularly, the invention provides wind activated hunting decoys, which comprise a body portion adapted to portray realistic images of any waterfowl or 5 other decoy species. The invention further provides universal mounting posts upon which the wind activated decoys are supported. The universal mounting posts, preferably, can be used with any accommodating body portion of such wind activated decoys.